U.N. Sustainable Development Goals *

Central Bank of Kansas City (CBKC) is dedicated to financial empowerment, affordable banking services and community development. Since becoming a Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) in 1998, we have partnered with organizations that want to create a positive social impact, unlocking the potential of distressed communities through strategic investments and community outreach. We believe in people, purpose and possibility, and our mission centers on revitalizing these communities with better jobs, services, and vibrant communal spaces.

People, Purpose and Possibility

EXPANDING ACCESS TO EARLY EDUCATION THROUGH NEW MARKETS TAX CREDITS (NMTC)

CBKC's $11 million NMTC allocation allowed Operation Breakthrough to expand its Troost Campus, providing education, healthcare, and parenting programs to underserved Kansas City neighborhoods. It created space for 300 additional K-8 students and introduced MakerCity, where students develop 21st-century skills in STEM, the arts and other academic subjects through hands-on learning. This project furthers the bank's commitment to supporting vital community services and improving educational opportunities for underserved families. In addition to education, CBKC focuses on financing affordable housing developments, healthcare, manufacturing and healthy food alternatives.

We're About People

By financing buildings, creating jobs and promoting financial literacy, we foster economic stability and growth. The CBKC staff is involved on a personal level. Volunteering with children's reading programs, teaching grade school students about saving, supporting local non-profits, hosting health fairs and advocating for local businesses are all part of who Central Bank is as a CDFI – we genuinely care about the people who live and work here.
